Is it possible to provide Drag and Drop? A: Just as you have to enable multitouch for using the MTMouch API, you also need to enable the multitouch API for the touch events to be triggered in the usual way. In your application, write: - (void)touchesBegan:(NSSet *)touches withEvent:(UIEvent *)event{ if (self.mas_keyWindow == nil) return; [self.mas_keyWindow makeKeyAndVisible]; } - (void)touchesEnded:(NSSet *)touches withEvent:(UIEvent *)event{ if (self.mas_keyWindow == nil) return; [self.mas_keyWindow makeKeyAndVisible]; } Make sure the window has mouse and multitouch support in the app's Info.plist. Also, make sure that the coordinate system is right (tap a form in a window on the iPhone for example). A: Either use Apple's recommendations for enabling multitouch as detailed on their Multitouch site (see the "9.6.1.1 Enable Multitouch" section) or just use the MTMouch API to drag things instead of the UITouch API.
