History AutoCAD was first created in 1982 by Ralph Griswold, now president of the company, as a competitor to CAD systems such as Cadna. Autodesk was the largest supplier of CAD systems to the construction industry in the mid-1990s. In August 1992, Autodesk acquired Newtek Corporation, a division of the NewTek company. The first release of AutoCAD, released in 1989, was an "off the shelf" solution, ready to install and use as soon as purchased. Autodesk started the process of creating CAD systems in the 1980s and the first system was made available in 1990. In the early 1990s, the company began developing 3D construction design. The post from Bruce Farmer, who is running for the seat in Westerville, Ohio, has been shared more than 33,000 times. The online community reacted, with many expressing outrage at the fake news narrative, with others praising Farmer for calling out the false story. Farmer has since clarified he has only published one post on Facebook and it was in response to a fake story he received about an alleged arson attack at a hotel. The hotel, The Hampton Inn, has denied the incident, and the mayor of Westerville, Andrew Ginther, said it was completely fabricated. When asked if he was the author of the post, Farmer said: "No, I didn't do it, and I regret it." Farmer said he has been the subject of many attacks in the past two months, which led him to believe the post was fake. "I see it as a way of proving to myself that these are just political stunts. Model Assignments: Create a single model across multiple drawings and/or a single model for an entire assembly. Draw the same model once and assign to multiple drawings (auto-assigns by similarity). (video: 0:45 min.)

Work in Screen Space: Draw on a full-screen surface that goes with you from any AutoCAD session and returns to its original position when you close the drawing. Also, when you toggle between drawing tools, the commands are immediately active. (video: 1:10 min.)

New feature called block-locking: Your object selection stays locked when you insert it into another object. Block-locking saves time and reduces errors when you are reusing an object in many places. The new block-locking feature is automatically activated for you. (video: 1:14 min.)

Influence lighting: Automatically generate lighting on the basis of the drawing area that you select. You no longer have to manually position the lights. The new influence lighting feature is automatically activated for you. (video: 1:00 min.)

Airbrush: Use the airbrush to draw more accurately. Easily adjust the curve and shape of the path, speed, and pressure. Add brush textures, a tip for contouring, and more. You can easily experiment with different airbrush settings without having to draw the entire path. (video: 1:32 min.) Better centering of legends: The new legends feature aligns your legends and guides by placing them at the geometric center of your objects. It also automatically positions them relative to your cursor when you draw. The new legends feature automatically activates when you select objects. (video: 1:15 min.)
